LOCAL NOTINGS

Mr Oscar Johnson arrived back in town last week, after five weeks spent in Montana. He states that the harvest there has been a good one.

Mrs Brophy, of Calgary, has made arrangements, as will be seen from another column of this issue, to visit Strathmore every Friday. Mrs Brophy is a first-class teacher of pianoforte and voice production.

Mr A. S. Shaw is back on his place on the north side of the track, after five weeks in Oregon. He is going into the painting business again.

The death took place at his home near Carbon, on 17th inst, of John Nohor, a well-known resident of that district. The funeral took place to Rosebud Church on Sunday.

Mr M. P. Purves, of Desplains, Illinois, and the owner of considerable land in this vicinity, is as full of enthusiasm for the Allies' cause as any man on this side of the boundary. He is expecting additional taxation, and is ready and willing to pay it.

His remarks, in a letter addressed to us lately, are: "I am expressing notice of war tax on my land up there, and am certainly willing to help annihilate Kaiser Bill and Prussia. Their tactics are damnable, and should be entirely obliterated. This country is awaking to the fact that there is propaganda and espionage the like of which England has been overrun with for years. Wishing you success, also the success of the Allied armies."

Mr Don H. Bark showed us some alfalfa roots, taken from a field at the Demonstration Farm, which he says "are anything but easy saw. To tell the truth, they are more like tree roots than those of a small forage plant. The main root is at least an inch thick, and the smaller ones are thick and strong in proportion. There should not be much fear of alfalfa winterkilling in this country."

Mr J. H. Taylor, of Cairnhill, last week brought in an egg laid by a Rhode Island Red hen four months old. It was not a big one, but it certainly showed readiness on the part of the bird.

Water was born to Mr Geo. Fraser on Wednesday.

The Department of Agriculture has arranged with the Military Authorities to extend the time for soldiers leave at harvest work one month longer on their personal application to their Officer Commanding. It has been decided that the removal of so large a number of competent harvesters would leave a gap impossible to fill at the present time without a great deal of inconvenience to the farmers employing them.

Scandinavian services in the Holy Schoolhouse on Sunday September 22th at 11 a.m.

Yes, they do give a 75c note for 50c put up by a first class fish chef at the Maple Inn.

Mr O'Rourke, of the Superintendent's Office, Canadian Bank of Commerce, is relieving Mr Lewis' local manager, while the latter is on vacation.

Mr H. F. McDonald received news on Monday of the death of his brother Angus, at his home in Embarras, Ontario. Mr McDonald has been in poor health for considerable time past. He visited here last Christmas.

Mr John North surprised us yesterday by dropping into our office with a big cucumber, one of two dozen or so that he had grown in his garden, right in the open, without any mulch, or any protection. Some of the cucumbers, he states, were ten inches long and proportionally heavy. He also grows squashes, pumpkins and citrons successfully.

Mr North, like a good husband, gives all the credit for the success of his garden to his wife.

Wanted, a girl for general housework. Apply Mrs F. T. McElwain.

A business meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on the first Saturday in October. Every member is expected to be present.

A daughter was born to Mr and Mrs H. Bush, on Sunday, Sept. 16.

An officer of the British Red Cross Commission will be in Strathmore on Tuesday, September 26, for the purpose of laying down.

Strathmore Patriotic Society are going to hold a "Bitter Day" in the near future.

A meeting of the Society will be held at the home of Mrs F. T. McElwain on Friday evening of this week, at 8 o'clock.

The Home Guard have now the opportunity of getting the services of a very competent instructor, in the person of Sergeant T. H. Irvine, R.N.W.M.P., and every man in the district who wants to make himself fit to help the country in an emergency should attend Thursday night's meeting. Drill can be commenced almost at once, after the dates are set on Thursday.

For Sale, a 20-acre farm adjoining good town on main line C.P.R., 18 acres irrigable, balance dry, 100 acres broken, all alfalfa land 20 acres, farm is leased by a section grazing land, Price $25.00 per acre, reasonable cash payment required. Also A1 Section of dry land, well-wooded, price $18.50 per acre. Also a half-section of wildland north of Rosebud, Alberta. Same price and terms—Apply Frank T. McElwain, Strathmore. 22-9-13

Duckshooting Case

JUSTICES DISAGREE

Whether Messrs G. D. Walters and Don H. Bark shot, wounded, or killed, ducks, on, at or over the property of Mr and Mrs Deard, three miles from town, is still a dark mystery. The prosecution swore positively that they did, and the defense swore positively that they didn't. After hearing the evidence, one justice thought they did, and the other that they didn't, so that the case will have to be tried again, before a fresh magistrate, if a decision is to be reached.

When the case was called the courtroom only sign was up at the Barracks, every nook and cranny of the zone too commodious edifice being occupied by intensely interested spectators, who seemingly enjoyed the proceedings immensely.

Justices Lambert and Vickery, seated on the bench, and the accused were represented by Mr J. J. Patie, and the prosecution by Mr T. M. Weir.

Mr L. A. Lambert, Calgary, was the first man to stand trial, but both the Deards admitted that he was not one of the shooters, and he was dismissed with apologies for the loss of time occasioned him, and "without a stain on his character."

At the commencement of proceedings there was an interesting legal skirmish between the opposing counsel as to whether Mr Walters could be brought forward, he having been brought up and dismissed on a similar charge last Saturday, and finally Justices decided that Walters and Bark should keep each other company, the case last week having been dismissed on a technicality.

DEARD'S EVIDENCE

Wm. Deard testified that on the 6th day of September he and his wife were in their house when they heard shots, and looking out, found that two motor cars had arrived, and were shooting up all the ducks sight, on their property, which included a slough partly on their property and partly on the road allowance, which is divided at this point so that vehicles can pass round the slough.

There were five or six in the party. Both Walters and Bark had guns. Bark told Walters to go round the slough and drive the ducks up, and witness told him to stay out, as he would summons him if he came inside his property. Both Walters and Bark stayed out, but they shot the ducks from the road allowance.

According to witness, they shot every duck on his place, and then tried to convince him by offering him a drink. There were about twenty-five or thirty ducks. None of the ducks left the water. They were too close. He thought they were poor sportsmen to shoot ducks on the water. He had notices up "No Shooting Allowed" and Walters and Bark never saw such brazen people in his life.

Cross-examination by Mr Patie elicited the information that Walters had nothing to do with the shooting. Mr Patie asked if he saw the ducks fall, and witness said that the ducks could not fall because they never rose.

MRS DEARD'S STORY

Mrs Deard's evidence corroborated that of her husband. She claimed that one of Bark's shots hit her in the face and hand. One man leaving a red sweater went into her pasture, and retreated when informed by one of the others, "Look out, Jimmy, the old man's coming." "He was an impudent bound," commented the witness, but she could not identify him.

Threshing Progress

Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, little or no threshing was done last week. Rain fell on several occasions during the week, and there was a particularly heavy rain on Sunday.

However, since that time it has been dry, and threshing was commenced yesterday. All the grain in the district is now cut, and practically all stacked.

Nearly all the threshing outfits will be under way this week, and the amount of grain this year is such that it will take six or eight weeks' steady threshing to clean up the crop.

Threshing in the neighborhood of Standard commenced earlier than in the district immediately surrounding here. Mr J. Elder commenced threshing wheat on the 6th inst., and his yield on fifty acres of winter wheat averaged 42 bushels per acre. This was on summerland, non-irrigated. While threshing, he is sowing his 1914 crop of winter wheat in the country, and 231 acres of oats, other crops bringing his total acreage up to 950.

We would be very much obliged if threshers would let us know their yields from time to time. The information would be much appreciated both by farmers and townpeople.

Enlistments Continue

The enlistment boom in Strathmore still continues, and almost every day more men from here join the colors.

The successions since last issue, so far as we have been able to find out, include G. Anderson, better known as "Jerry," son of Mr and Mrs R. A. Anderson, Tom Hammond, employed with W. Freeman, W. Snooks, employed with H. Groves, Stanley Talmy, and Robert Uwin, both employed with the Club Cafe.

"Rube" Porteous, employed for the past two years with the King Edward Hotel, was accepted last week, and will start in training shortly.

Robert Townsley has returned from the States, where he disposed of his car, and took the train to San Francisco Exposition, and signed up on Saturday with the 82nd. He is a nine year veteran service with the United States Army, which he left with the rank of Sergeant.

Since coming up from the States in the early summer he has been assisting Mr W. C. Brown in his garage business, while Mrs Townsley and family have been staying with Mrs E. Bauer, her sister.

Colbert Leary, at the head of the 32nd battalion, expects to pay Strathmore a visit throughout the Province a visit shortly for the purpose of signing on recruits.

Premier Hadzslavoff of Bulgaria, who has stood in the way of an alliance with Allies on account of his insistence upon Bulgaria's demands for territorial expansion, usually at the expense of Serbia, is said to have accepted the solution offered by Serbia and to be ready to join in the campaign against Turkey at an opportune moment.

The Roll of Honor

To the list of Strathmore men enlisted in His Majesty's Forces since the beginning of the war, published in last issue, the following names of C.P.R. employees should be added:

A. G. Wilson
S. Winkler
H. Robinson
J. Young
J. Underwood
J. Rice
A. Wood
A. N. Light
James Reid

This with the new recruits recorded in this issue, brings the enlistments from Strathmore to over 300. There are now three brothers of Uwin family at the front, S. H., Tom, and Robert.

Of the Strathmore enlistments the C.P.R. Irrigation Department have supplied twenty-four.

Mr W. Rowe Harvey writes that the name of his brother Hugh C. Harvey, who joined the 5th Field Company Canadian Engineer last March, was omitted from the list. We have much pleasure in making the correction and addition.

AMERICAN PLAN

BUY AN IRRIGATED FARM

FROM THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY

BECAUSE—

Irrigation makes the farmer independent of rainfall, and insures good crops, not occasionally, but EVERY YEAR. Irrigation makes possible the successful culture of alfalfa, the King of fodders, which insures best returns in dairying and stock raising. Irrigation means intensive farming and close settlement, with all the advantages of a densely populated agricultural community.

Irrigation in the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation Bill is no longer an experiment, the year 1913 having absolutely demonstrated its success wherever intelligently applied. You may buy irrigated land from the Canadian Pacific Railway at prices ranging from $35 to $75 per acre, with twenty years to pay and the privilege of a loan of $2000 for superintendence (6 per cent interest) no principal payment at the end of first or second year and no water rental for first year. Assistance is also given in supplying stock in approved instances. This is the most liberal offer of irrigated farm land on record. Get full particulars from

Horses and the Saddle
Have you ever wondered why your horse is so nervous when he is saddled? The reason is very simple. The saddle is too tight. It is too tight across the chest, too tight across the back, and too tight across the hindquarters. The result is that the horse is uncomfortable and nervous. The solution is to use a saddle that is properly fitted to the horse's body.

WARNING CLOSET

Home-made Cabinet That Sets Over the Steam Radiator.

An ingenious Pennsylvania man made an effective warning closet for his home by building a flat cabinet which he fastened above the steam radiator. He took a piece of white pine board, one-half inch thick, about 15 inches wide and as long as the radiator for the top. Two pieces about 12 inches by 12 inches formed the sides and a sheet of galvanized metal, preferably perforated, made the bottom. Across the front, at the bottom, is a strip about two inches deep and two glass doors, but not necessarily glass. Finally, this cabinet is fastened to the wall, just above the radiator, by four angle brackets. The device needed for breakfast or uncooked cereals that

Riots in Plover

There is hardly a householder who has not been assured when a riot is being attempted to drive into the wall will not hold in the plover.

While he merits the sympathy and kindly consideration of all persons who have been similarly upset, there is no one of the difficulty that seems so simple, his anger becomes absurd. The wall to be driven into the plover should have a notch filed in it near the end on one side and another notch a little further along toward the other end on the other side. When the wall is to be put into the wall it should be dipped in liquid glue until it is well covered and then driven in place. As soon as the glue hardens it will become as firm as the plaster itself.

ICE CREAM COLD HOLDER

Enables Dealer to Carry a Number of Cakes in One Hand.

Under ordinary circumstances, a person can carry only about one or two cream cakes in one hand, and the hands of the average dealer in ice cream cones are not such as one could carry a lot of them. The holder is a simple device for carrying these confections. The holder is itself cone-shaped and has a wire running up from it with a loop at the top. The holder is designed so that the ice cream cone can be held in the loop and the holder can be held in the hand.

HANDS DON'T TOUCH CONES

By slipping the wire loop over the cone a man may carry a dozen cones without trouble and in a much more efficient fashion than if he carried them in his hands. Furthermore, if a cone is held in the loop for any length of time the heat of the hand will cause the ice cream to melt.

STRANGELY WON V.C.'S

Air and Submarine Exploits Would Astonish Queen Victoria

Twice during the great war has the Victoria Cross been won in a way that would have astonished Queen Victoria, for even during the reign of that sovereign when the decoration was first instituted. For Queen Victoria, of course, never even dreamed of the possibility of an aerial duel between the two types of aircraft such as occurred for the late Flight Sub-Lieutenant Warfield the credited hit of British aviators, thereby winning the first aerial V.C. of the war.

Even in the days gone by, however, many Crosses have been won in quite curious and exceptional circumstances. Admiral "Tug" Wilson, for example, got his for lowering over half-a-dozen Arabs with his fate at Id. Tel. For his sword had been broken off short at the hilt, a feat which also earned for him his popular nickname, the original "Tug" Wilson having been a British boxer who, about that time, gained a certain brief notoriety by slugging up to John J. Sullivan, the heavyweight champion of the world.

Nor was Wilson the only British officer who earned the V.C. through skill in football. At Jermyn, in India, during the Mutiny, the late General James Blair knocked down several armed mutineers in almost precisely similar circumstances; his sword having been broken off early in the scrimmage, while at Inkerman Captain Hugh Rowlands saved his commanding officer, Colonel Hay, by bowling over with a straight left-hand a gigantic Russian who was refusing up to bayonet him as he lay wounded on the ground. Both officers received the V.C. in due course.

THOROUGH CADORNO

Stories of Italy's Veteran Commander and Greatest Tactician

The son of a famous soldier, General Repinelli Cadorno, who in the great struggles of 1848-49 won the reputation of being one of Italy's military leaders, General Luigi Cadorno, Commander of the First Italian Army, has proved himself a military genius in every sense of the term. He is a recognized authority on the wars of the past four decades, and a fine strategist and tactician, his war tactics and maneuvers being the guide books of every Italian officer.

The Austrians are well aware that they have fought against a man who knows every inch of the north and northeast frontiers of Italy, and one whose lightning strategy is proverbial in military circles throughout Europe. General Cadorno's thoroughness is illustrated by the fact that for six years he tramped the passes of the Carpathian and Tyrolean Alps, and he has made a map of the whole point here and a death trap there. And it was the knowledge thus gained which enabled him at ultimate maneuvers to out-general everybody and led to his rapid promotion. It is related that in the maneuvers of 1911 he set himself to play the part of a defeated general. Orders misinterpreted, reinforcements came late, general confusion set in, and Cadorno's troops were surrounded. Then he set himself to extricate them, and carried out a retreat which was the marvel of the Italian tacticians. Since he was a boy of ten—he was born in 1856—General Cadorno has been learning leadership, and he is rather fond of saying that he has scarcely passed the elementary stages. A slight martinet, he never forgives incompetence in his officers. At the same time he is the friend of every man for he loves them all, and is ever considerate of their welfare. In 1881 General Cadorno married, and has a son and three daughters, two of whom are nuns.

Holland's Growing Army
The peace strength of the Netherlands army—that is, the permanent staff of all the units of the first line—amounted in 1913 to 15,643 officers and 214,122 non-commissioned soldiers and men. The total strength of the first aid army is approximately 158,000 men with 153 guns. Holland has been training all available men, and can put an army of several hundred thousands into the field. Every Dutch citizen is liable to personal service in the army (or navy) from the age of sixteen to forty. Actual service in the militia is determined by lot, but substitution is not permitted.

As far as practicable, all men on orders and battalions have a bath before they go to the front.

"Le Marechiale," the French national anthem, was composed at Strasbourg. Capt. is a Russian rendering of Caesar.

Duck Shooting Case

among those in the court. He asked her if she would like to sell more milk. She also absolved Mr. Lambert from all responsibility for the shooting. The party waited on the shore for the ducks to come in with the wind, and Mark kept shouting "Have my ducks come yet, Walters."

RIVAL MAPS
When Mr. Walters was examined he brought forward a map drawn by Mr. Mark, which showed remarkable differences from the one drawn by the prosecution counsel, Mr. Walters. In fact, it did not look like the same place at all. Later, an official contour map was produced, which was different from both, and so honors rested even.

Walters claimed that the greater part of the slough was on the other side of the fence from Deane's, which led Deane to dramatically exclaim "I contradict that," for which he was severely admonished and held his peace thereafter, though with evident difficulty.

Walters was absolutely positive that he did not shoot Deane's ducks, or into their slough or in their direction.

He knew better, also he knew the Deane's. He boldly denied that he had shot Mrs. Deane, and Mrs. Walters stated that he meant that question as a joke. Mr. Walters, who is a very good shot, "jokes" with delicacy. He was certain that he had not shot any ducks on Deane's side of the fence.

LOTS OF DUCKS

According to Mr. Mark, the victory of the Deane's place has been a hunter's paradise. There were ducks flying around in all directions, and with expert gestures they described how they scooped and fluttered around him here, there, and everywhere. He had drawn the sketch exhibited by Walters. "Neither of us would get a prize for map drawing," said Mr. Walters, and witnesses agreed that it was somewhat improbable on the strength of the sketches exhibited in court.

He denied absolutely having shot at any ducks in the Deane's place or having fired shots in the direction of Mrs. Deane. He was exceptionally positive that he did not shoot any ducks, or into their slough or in their direction.

Mr. Lambert said neither Walters nor Deane had gone into Deane's place, or had shot any of the ducks on Deane's part of the slough.

Both Messrs. Pettie and Waters, in summing up, said the whole matter hinged on the credibility of the witnesses.

The Justices retired, and after a considerable interval, reappeared and stated that they had been unable to agree, off a conviction, and therefore could neither convict nor acquit the case.

It is stated that the case will be brought forward again on Saturday of this week, with a fresh magistrate or magistrates. This is the first time in Strathmore that the Justices have been unable to reach a decision on a case before them.
